Mayor Giles proclaimed October 24 through 30, 2021, as a week without violence. He stated the week is designed to create awareness, education, and strengthen the commitment to ending violence, while promoting peace and making the community of Mesa a safer place to live. He introduced Dr. Ruth Lim.

Dr. Lim shared her story about serving in Operation Desert Storm and then attending an international meeting on domestic violence in 1998. She said being a physician for 41 years, has helped her realize that conflict is very common in families, which affects children. She spoke about her non-profit, Children's Benefit Foundation, that serves children and strengthens the family. She indicated her goal is to promote individual, professional, and community successes.

Mayor Giles recognized the Washington-Escobedo Neighborhood Action Committee who was selected to receive the 2021 Governor's Heritage Preservation Honor Award for their efforts in highlighting the Washington-Escobedo Heritage neighborhood, which is the highest honor for historic preservation in the state of Arizona that recognizes successful and impactful preservation projects. He introduced Historic Preservation Coordinator Arianna Urban.

Ms. Urban acknowledged the Washington-Escobedo Neighborhood Action Committee for their work in creating the seminal document that led to the designation of the Washington-Escobedo Heritage Neighborhood, which is the first of its kind. She mentioned the designation is based on the rich integrity of community, culture, and the traditions of the area, along with its architectural and historical significance. She congratulated the Washington-Escobedo Neighborhood Action Committee for their significant and meaningful contribution to the city.

Maria Mancinas, Chairperson for the Washington-Escobedo Neighborhood Advisory Committee, thanked former City Councilmember Christopher Glover and Vic Linoff for their support in the efforts of creating the quality-of-life plan. She discussed that she recently addressed the Redistricting Commission regarding the adjustment of district lines and voiced concern about removing Washington-Escobedo from District 4. She requested Council's support in keeping Washington-Escobedo in District 4 because the community is far from finishing this work.

Bruce Nelson, Historic Preservation Boardmember, thanked Council and said he appreciates the honor.

Mayor Giles stated the Information and Technology (IT) Department earned the Overall City Government Experience Award from the Center for Digital Government. He remarked the award recognizes the achievements and best practices of cities that radically improve government experience and push the boundaries of how citizen services are delivered. He said Mesa's IT Department was recognized for transitioning online services during the pandemic to distribute federal CARES Act funding quickly. He introduced Chief Information Officer Travis Cutright.

Mr. Cutright clarified the award is not only for the IT Department, but for the City of Mesa as a testament to the exceptional leadership by Mayor Giles, the Councilmembers, and the City Manager, with collaboration from all the departments to pivot and create new services when the pandemic hit. He indicated the City was selected first in the nation for the way the City established new and innovative ways to serve citizens.

Mayor Giles explained the Economic Development Department has earned multiple awards from the International Economic Development Council (IEDC). He stated IEDC's excellence in Economic Development awards recognize the world's best programs and partnerships and the most influential leaders. He introduced Economic Development Department Director William Jabjiniak.

Mr. Jabjiniak stated Economic Development is fortunate to be honored again with two individual and two team awards by the IEDC for the work that has taken place over the last several years. He said award categories honor organizations and individuals for their efforts in creating positive change in urban, suburban, and rural communities.

Mr. Jabjiniak reported the Gold Award was in the category of economic equity and inclusion and the award recognizes programs dedicated to improving the quality of life within a community through focused innovative and inclusive initiatives. He remarked Mesa Cares HUUB, in partnership with CO+HOOTS, is a data-driven digital entrepreneur resource platform that helps small businesses recover and rebuild following the pandemic, and since launching in June of 2020 Mesa HUUB has served more than 350 businesses and provided 900 hours of technical assistance.

Mr. Jabjiniak announced the Silver Award was for the Economic Development organization of the year for a community with a population more than 500,000 and the award recognizes organizations who have demonstrated long-term strategic planning, organizational development, and significant community impact and/or innovation. He commented he is proud of the Economic Development team and community partners who worked diligently to provide the tools and assistance needed to make Mesa an extraordinary place for businesses to locate and thrive. He asked the Economic Development staff to stand and be recognized.

Mr. Jabjiniak indicated the first individual award recognizes the young economic developer of the year and was presented to Senior Economic Development Project Manager JD Beatty. He advised the award recognizes outstanding achievements by a young emerging leader in the Economic Development profession. He played a video of City Manager Christopher Brady acknowledging Mr. Beatty for his accomplishments.

Mr. Jabjiniak continued by saying the second individual award recognizes a community or business leader or an individual who is not an Economic Development practitioner but who plays a key leadership role. He commented the citizen leadership award of the year was presented to Rich Adams, President and CEO of Southwest Business Credit and Vice Chair of the City of Mesa Economic Development Advisory Board. He played a video of Mayor Giles acknowledging Mr. Adams for his accomplishments.

Mayor Giles stated he could not be prouder of the awards and accomplishments. He added the City of Mesa has had one of the best economic development years despite the pandemic.
